It's the time of year when summer storms roll across the region. Photographer Dirk MacKnight caught this display in East Andover Friday. The view is looking south toward Newry and Little Puzzle Mountain.

G'wood park plan at risk

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The ambitious vision of Greenwood Selectman Ivan Roberts may have obscured Greenwood's hopes of acquiring 84 acres of potential parkland on the shore of South Pond.

The land was offered to the town for $200 an acre by longtime resident Maggie Ring, who said she hoped the parcel would be maintained in its present state, but with minor amenities — such as a hiking path, parking lot and perhaps an outhouse — added so that it could serve as a park for residents and visitors.

When news of the offer became known, other residents promised donations equal to more than two-thirds of the $16,800 purchase price.

At a special Town Meeting last month voters overwhelmingly agreed to go ahead with the purchase.

But following the first meeting, on June 30, of the town's newly formed Parks and Trails Committee, the deal looks to be seriously at risk.

At that meeting Roberts was elected as the committee's director, and, according to committee member Blaine Mills, Roberts described a grand plan for the parcel that included a mountain bike trail, technical rock climbing, and paths wide enough to accommodate handicapped access equipment.

The problem is; that's not exactly what Maggie Ring had in mind for the parcel, which

Projected sewer rate hike lowered

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The proposed rate increase facing customers of the Bethel sewer system has been more than halved.

The initial budget draft reviewed by town selectmen last month called for a rate hike of 12.5 percent, which would have been the second double-digit increase in as many years.

The revised budget, however, now calls for an increase of only 5.5 percent.

The Sewer Department budget was scheduled to be the subject of a public hearing yesterday, Wednesday, evening (after prestime for this week's edition of The Citizen).

The rate of increase in the initial budget proposal was driven primarily by capital improvement projects.

In a letter presenting the new budget to selectmen, Town Manager Scott Cole said the lower rate of increase in the revised version was made possible by applying accumulated sewer system development charges to those capital improvements. (Sewer system development charges, or SSDCs, are the fees charged for new hookups to the system.)

Woodstock could be new city of lights

By ALISON ALOISIO

Woodstock selectmen plan to ask voters to approve $7,000 to install a flashing sign at the foot of Merrifield Hill in Bryant Pond. The sign would warn motorists who exceed the 30-mile-an-hour speed limit.

Town officials are also recommending lights and signs for Route 26 by the ball field when a game is in progress.

Residents of the village have often expressed concern that cars and 18-wheelers go too fast coming down Merrifield Hill, and carry their speed into the village itself. Speeding vehicles also make it difficult for southbound drivers to turn left on to Rumford Avenue, town officials said.

"A lot of people mention (the speeding problem)," Vern Maxfield, Woodstock town manager, told selectmen at their regular meeting Tuesday.

Maxfield said the Maine Department of Transportation would install the sign for the town. It would resemble one currently in place at a sharp curve in Rumford Point.

The light flashes the words, "Speed too fast," for any car traveling over the limit.

Voters will consider the question at a special Town Meeting, expected to take place next month.

The town currently has two

B.H.S. exhibit looks at the real woman behind Mollyockett's legend

By ALISON ALOISIO

Many people who live in the Bethel region have heard bits and pieces of the Mollyockett legend — the "curse" at Snow Falls; how she saved the life of Hannibal Hamlin, the future vice-president of the United States; the "princess" image that is part of the modern Mollyockett celebration.

But there is much more to the 18th century Wabanaki Indian woman who inspired the annual festival held in her name. And on Mollyockett Day, on the Bethel common, anyone who is interested can learn about the real life woman. The Bethel Historical Society will open a new exhibit titled "Molly Ockett and Her World" on that day in the Robinson House.

(The exhibit spells the name as two separate words, while the festival combines it into one.)

Her life

For the past three years, Randy Bennett, BHS curator of collections, and volunteers have been compiling information, images and artifacts for the exhibit.

"We tried to go back to older sources, as close to first hand as we could get," said Bennett.

That included the writings of 19th century Bethel historian Nathaniel True, who interviewed people who had known Molly Ockett; accounts from the Hannibal Hamlin family; and a book about Henry Tufts, who lived among the Wabanaki of western Maine in the 18th and 19th centuries.

The research led to the creation of one section of the exhibit entitled, "The Many Faces of Molly Ockett." It includes perspectives on her physical appearance and dress; her role as a wife and mother; her moral character and religious beliefs; her great generosity; her talent as a storyteller and crafts-woman; and one of her most famous roles, as Indian "Dress" to the white people of western Maine.

Her times

In addition to providing factual information about Mollyockett herself, the exhibit also places her in an historical context. "We're trying to provide a more broad-based view," said Bennett.

For example, in a background section of the exhibit, we learn:

"Molly Ockett entered the world in a period when her people faced ongoing and violent frontier warfare from a succession of colonial conflicts between French Canadian colonists in the St. Lawrence Valley and Protestant New Englanders on the Atlantic seaboard.

"Caught in the middle, the Wabanaki were forced to choose sides, with many retreating to Indian mission villages in Canada where they stayed between long, seasonal hunting and fishing forays in their old territories to the south.

"Following the loss of Canada by the French in 1763, English settlements were able to spread northward into interior Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont, in relative security.

"Some of the Indians who had withdrawn to Canada, including a number residing at the Quebec missionary village of Odanak on the St. Francis River, returned to the Saco and Androscoggin valleys where they interacted

Parts of northern New England termed 'food deserts'

ASSOCIATED PRESS

William Laste of Pittsburg, N.H., thinks nothing of driving more than 400 miles roundtrip to buy groceries, or of supplementing his shopping with fiddlehead ferns and dandelion greens gathered in fields near his home.

In this mountainous outpost of 870 people along the Canadian border, good food at fair prices is hard to find. There are no supermarkets, and the community's two convenience stores offer little fresh produce and plenty of high prices.

Laste's fixed income can't accommodate $2.99 for his favorite cheesy crackers. He gets around it by combining shopping with monthly visits to friends in cities to the south, where the same crackers cost half the price.

"Up here, you're so far out they've got you over a barrel," the 69-year-old retired plumber said recently. "I couldn't afford to shop up here."

Such is life in "food deserts," increasingly common rural, and sometimes urban, areas where supermarkets with healthy and affordable food are many miles away.

The definition of food deserts is relative. In cities, where fewer people own automobiles, it might mean having to walk a mile, said

Troy Blanchard, a sociologist at Mississippi State University. In rural communities, it could mean a 30-mile drive.

And public transportation (a rarity in rural areas) anyway — doesn't always help.

"Imagine trying to get a week's groceries if you have a couple of kids, carry that onto a bus, transfer it to a subway and carry it home," said Blanchard, one of only a handful of people studying the food desert effect in the United States.

For people like Laste, who have the vehicles, time and patience to go the distance, it's an inconvenience. For the poor and elderly, it can mean stocking the refrigerator with the pricey, fatty fare of gas station convenience stores.

"It's going to be more chips and canned and processed foods, which just play into high rates of obesity, diabetes and other fat-related diseases," said Andy Fisher, executive director of the Community Food Security Coalition in Venice, Calif.

"It's kind of a real perverse irony that the people who have the least are paying the most."

The term food desert was coined more than a decade ago in Great Britain, where

TIME TO SHOW DUE RESPECT

To the Editor:

After 35 years of work, including six years of military service, I'm in need of help.

We all like to think that our government and its leaders actually mean what they say when they proclaim how much they appreciate our efforts in the work force and our service to country.

Yet now, I'm in a situation where I've had to sell most of my tools and what few possessions that were marketable to continue to exist and to be able to afford to live while on chemotherapy treatment. I have a tax lien on my property and mounting bills and yet I've waited over six months and have been told it will be another three months minimum before a determination can be made on my case.

How can anyone see anything but hypocrisy in the mission statement of Social Security and the statements of those who call themselves our leaders. It's time for our government and its agencies to show due respect for those of us who have done the dirty work for all these years.

LACK OF FAIRNESS

To the Editor:

As coaches, officials and parents of the Andy Valley Cal Ripkin Baseball League, we have the special responsibility and obligation to model the highest standards of sportsmanship and fairness to our youngsters. This responsibility was seriously neglected in a league semi-final playoff game between the South Paris Reds and the Bethel Red Sox on June 26.

The game was a nail biter. It seesawed back and forth to the bottom of the sixth when the Reds won with several very close and debatable calls.

Only minutes after the game, the coaches of the Bethel Red Sox discovered that the home-plate umpire as well as the base umpire were parents of Reds' players. There had been no discussion much less agreement of the use of parents of the home team as umpires in an important and highly charged semi-final baseball game.

Following the loss, my husband spoke to the players about how winning may be fun and in a sense easy. Losing is more difficult, but through difficulty comes growth and maturity. While we believe that this is true, it is difficult to explain to children why the loss they suffered lacked the basic qualities of fairness and sportsmanship we as adults, coaches and parents owe them.

In speaking with my younger children about what had transpired, my seven-year-old asked: "But don't coaches have to play fair because they are all grown up?" It was a difficult question to answer. He felt as betrayed by the adults involved as much as I did.

As a parent of four little ones who spend their summer eating, drinking and loving baseball, I feel an immense sense of loss. Expecting a fair environment for a game is, I thought, not too much to ask.

REMEMBERING JOHN WITTER

To the Editor:

The picture I will always hold in my heart and in my mind is of this kind, unassuming man standing with his arms held open as far as they can stretch. He has that funny little smile of his on his face and a sparkle in his eyes. John says to all of us in Mom's family: "If you want a dad, here I am." And we did need him as much as he needed us. John would show this family how truly he could love us and help fill a void that was left in all of us when our other Dad died.

John loved all of us; he gave of himself and never asked for anything in return. Anyone who knew him knew he was happiest when he could make life easier for someone. He would help in any way he could. It didn't matter if you were family, friend, coworker or a stranger.

He helped heal a family and make it whole again when he married our Mom. Oh, how he knew how to love. All John asked was for you to love him back. His love is what made him special to all. My hope is that he knows how much each and every one of family, friend, coworker, strangers, and us loved him.

We all have built memories of John to hold in our hearts and minds. I would like to share just a few of my personal favorites.

John loved his dogs. He bought Mom a car and fencing for her pool, so to reward himself he bought Ginger. How could Marge not love that little bundle of fur? After all boys and dogs do go together.

Thanksgiving dinner was held at my home, and we all would celebrate his birthday along with Parker and Joleen. There is a picture of the three of them with the cake. Parker and Joleen are standing beside Dad and he has his mouth wide open and they are holding the cake up as if to fit it all into his mouth; Dad liked to eat. It was one of his favorite pastimes.

As the years went by, more and more John began to slow down, and he needed to go live at the Veterans' Home. I remember being there with Mom and Dad on that sad day. I can't begin to describe how Dad just sat there and looked so helpless. It was a hard adjustment for he and Mom. But I promised them I would come see him; I would not ever forget him and all the kindness and love he had shown to my family and me.

Wednesday became my day, our day together. Dan, my husband, would rush home from work to cook dinner for us. Dad liked to get out and come eat at our home. Oftentimes we would take the long way just so we could be together a little longer. Sometimes we would eat out, food and restaurant of his choice. That was always a high point for us.

Once instead of going home for dinner, we tried out a PT Cruiser and drove it to Turner and back. I told him we looked good in it and we should have Mom buy it for us to ride in. We laughed a lot about that.

John and I would sometimes just go for a ride and get ice cream. We would pick a road and see where it went. We had some good, long, bumpy rides when we ended up on a dirt road.

There is a saying that goes: "There is a special bond between fathers and daughters," and that bond is so true for John and me. He filled my life with so many memories and so much happiness, something that I will be forever grateful for.

I hope your memories of John are just as dear to you as they are to my family and me.

Food

it was used to describe the phenomenon of supermarkets withdrawing from cities to build larger stores on the outskirts.

Few formal studies have been done in the United States, but sociologists and social service workers believe research eventually will show that life in food deserts is financially, mentally and physically costly.

The majority of U.S. food deserts are rural areas, but researchers say a large number of people also are affected by a relatively small number of urban areas with poor grocery access.

But isn't it a bit unreasonable for people who choose to live in the boon docks to complain that they don't have a supercenter around the corner?

Not necessarily. Experts say the grocery landscape in the United States hasn't always been this way. Not so long ago, most communities had mom-and-pop grocers. That was before the suburbanization of shopping.

Americans want bargains, and they want them in big stores. But big stores don't fit in crowded inner cities and small towns can't support them. So supercenters grew up in the suburbs, where land is cheaper and shoppers are plentiful.

While making food and other products cheaper than ever before for millions of people, those massive stores siphon shoppers away from smaller markets in surrounding communities and city centers, forcing many to close.

During the 1950s, more than half of all grocery stores were mom-and-pop operations. Today, just 17 percent are, according to Walter Heller, research director for Progressive Grocer magazine.

For 17 years, Jerry and Dot Nering have run a small shop in Weld, a remote town of 400 people, located about 35 miles northeast of Bethel.

In its heyday the shop was stocked with meats, cheeses and produce, and shoppers swapped gossip around a wood stove.

Today, many of the Weld General Store's shelves are bare and customers only trickle in. The Nerings blame the two Wal-Mart Supercenters that have opened within 20 miles of their shop.

Business is so bad the couple even struggles to get suppliers to deliver to their western corner of the state.

"Our cost is higher than Wal-Mart sells for, so you can't compete," Jerry Nering said.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that groceries average 10 percent more in food deserts than at suburban grocers. That might be a bargain. A gallon of milk in Concord, N.H., a city of 40,000 people with seven supermarkets, recently cost $2.69. The price spiked to $4.25 about 120 miles north in Milan, a town of 1,300 with no supermarkets.

Using Census and other federal data, Blanchard, the Mississippi State University researcher, charted supermarket access nationally. He found it was worst in the West, where 44 percent of the average county's population has poor access to grocers.

The Midwest followed with 34 percent, the South with 24 percent and the Northeast with 10 percent.

"Sometimes the food pantries have a better selection of food than the grocery store in town," said Dawn Girardin, who works on hunger and other welfare issues at Western Maine Community Action in Wilton.

For Lorraine Karchenes, who lives with her husband and four-year-old son in Eustis, the inability to get organic and specialty foods in their town of 715 people forced her to look both further afield and closer to home.

For vitamins and wheat-free products for her son's allergies, Karchenes, 32, turned to the Internet. For fresh produce she turned to the 90 acres of farmland that stretch out behind her home.

The farming has gone so well that others now seek out her produce. A small sign at the end of her driveway advertises what's in season, and the local shop recently began selling some of her vegetables.

But for most working families and the elderly, few of whom have experience growing and storing food, farming isn't practical, said Thomas Lyson, a sociologist at Cornell University who studies food deserts.

"Even farmers tend not to grow their own food," he said. "What are you going to do, have a cow so you can milk it 12 months a year? We're not asking to become peasants again."

Wal-Mart spokeswoman Daphne Moore says her company, which has 1,500 supercenters nationally, has a history of catering to underserved regions and is looking to build more urban stores to help with grocery access in those areas.

Some grocers, as well as senior living homes and social service agencies, have experimented with shuttles that bring people to the stores. But these aren't always cost effective or efficient, especially over long distances.

Fisher thinks the blame — and responsibility for fixing the problem — goes to local and state governments, few of which have recognized supermarket access as a basic need.

"They haven't really focused on food as being a public issue," he said. "Planning departments aren't out there drawing maps of where there are food deserts."

Briefly

No charges in skier death

PARIS — No charges will be filed in connection with the February death of a Falmouth woman who died after a teenage skier collided with her at Sunday River Ski Resort. The facts of the case were not sufficient to prove criminal conduct, according to District Attorney Norman Croteau. Jane McCormack, 39, died of head injuries after a 14-year-old boy from Dover, Mass., struck her. Neither skier was wearing a helmet. The boy received minor injuries.

Parks and Trails meets

GREENWOOD — The Greenwood Parks and Trails Committee held its first meeting June 30. Ivan Roberts was appointed director, Loretta Mikols secretary and Kim Sparks, treasurer. The next meeting will take place Wednesday, July 14 at 6:30 p.m. at the Town Office. Interested residents are encouraged to attend.

ICT employees to get retraining

OXFORD — About 66 former ICT Group employees will receive retraining through a $397,740 federal grant. The former call center employees are eligible under the federal Trade Adjustment Assistance program. The program provides training to workers displaced for foreign trade competition.

Free bike safety program

FRYEBURG — A free Bicycle Safety Program for children ages 5 through 16 will take place Sunday, July 18, at 11 a.m. at the Fryeburg Fair Grounds. Participants will learn how to fix a flat tire, what clothes to wear, how to be the bike "driver," and night and trail riding. There will be a special night riding session in the evening. To register, contact the Oxford County Extension Office before July 12 (800) 287-1482.

Andro gets mixed reviews

LEWISTON — Dead fish no longer float belly up on the Androscoggin river. The blanket of foam is gone, as is much of the smell. Compared to how it used to be 25 or 30 years ago, the river is cleaner. But despite improvements, the Androscoggin remains the dirtiest, most polluted river in Maine. The three large paper mills on the river legally discharge thousands of pounds of organic pollution daily into the water, making them the river's biggest polluters. Drinking river water remains out of the question, and state health advisories recommend people eat no more than six to 12 fish from the Androscoggin a year. The river is technically "swimmable," according to the state, but its chemical contents and algae blooms make parts of it unswimmable to most people. But Elaine Makas, a state representative from Lewiston, is angry at what she sees as broken promises. She wants the state to force paper mills to reduce their discharges and really clean up the river. "I've been told, 'Be patient, Elaine,' and Elaine's been patient much longer than I should have," she said. "I want our children to swim in this river some day. I want to be able to eat the fish." Makas and other critics of the river's condition say the Legislature aggravated the situation a few months ago by specifically allowing a section of the Androscoggin and a section of the St. Croix to meet lower environmental standards than all other Maine rivers. During debate on the legislation, the Androscoggin was called a "working river," as if it were a special category, "almost like the slum of rivers," Makas said. "That's not fair. Lewiston-Auburn has spent millions in our downtowns.... This is our river, our lifeblood." Everyone agrees that the paper mills — Fraser in Berlin, N.H., MeadWestvaco in Rumford and International Paper in Jay — are the biggest contributors to the problem. During the last 20 years, they have reduced the amount of pollution flowing into the river, but it still totals almost 5 million pounds a year. Mill officials say they are operating below the state's pollution discharge limits while working to reduce pollution further and providing good-paying jobs to thousands of workers. In the 12 years 1991 to 2002, IP's daily discharge into the Androscoggin dropped from 17,000 pounds of organic waste to 4,841.

Tax collections exceed targets

AUGUSTA — A looming state surplus that could exceed $50 million is attributable in large measure to unanticipated sales and income tax revenue, according to the Baldacci administration. Officials last week said preliminary closeout figures for the fiscal year that ended June 30 suggest the sales and use tax line was running ahead of the latest estimate by $11.5 million. The income tax line was even stronger, bettering projections by an estimated $25 million. Also up, by an estimated $8 million, was the corporate income tax line, officials said. The Baldacci administration noted that not all year-end information was available yet and that adjustments may be made over the next couple of weeks. Preliminary figures indicate that sales and income tax revenue for June was essentially on budget. In a general overview, administration officials said in a statement that the Maine economy "appears to be on a slow but steady growth path and is tracking the national economy well." A statutory formula would channel about $16 million into a budget stabilization fund and the same amount would go toward the unfunded actuarial liability of the state retirement system, if a surplus in the $50-million range is realized. An additional $8 million would be channeled to a General Fund operating capital reserve. A surplus of the size now anticipated would also allow for the allocation of an additional $850,000 for the University of Maine, $350,000 for the Maine Community College System and $2 million for an economic improvement fund.

Man attacked by groundhog

LEWISTON — A 240-pound military veteran stands ready to dispute the notion of the cute, cuddly image of the groundhog in the movie "Caddyshack." James Nelson fought off a rampaging groundhog in his backyard, but the critter kept coming back for more after being kicked and hit with a shovel. It finally scurried away after a police officer showed up with a gun. "The thing was bionic," said Nelson, who was twice knocked to the ground. "It kept going like it was on a mission." The episode unfolded when the furry animal the size of a large cat showed up behind Nelson's home and proceeded to attack his two poodles as his 10-year-old daughter and her friend shrieked from the swimming pool. Nelson came to the rescue and shooed the groundhog away late Saturday morning, but that was not the end of the story. The angry critter came back, and this time it attacked Nelson, hissing and baring his teeth. Nelson gave the animal a kick and it ran away. But, again, the story didn't end there either. The groundhog came back and Nelson whacked it on the head with a shovel. "It was like a bull and matador thing," said Nelson. "I beat up myself trying to fight it off." Cleo Dow watched the ongoing battle from the neighbor's lawn. "He really wanted Jim," she observed. When police officer Trent Murphy arrived, the groundhog was hiding under Nelson's garage. It was there that the groundhog launched its final attack, going after both men. "I said, 'Shoot it! Shoot it!'" Nelson said. Murphy pulled his gun and fired. It was unknown whether the single bullet found its mark, but the animal disappeared into the woods.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Monday, July 5

At 2:52 a.m. Officer Shane Thomas responded with a county deputy to a Bryant Pond Village location for a report of a loud party. The deputy asked for assistance because the group had been warned twice earlier in the evening, at a Paris location. On arrival, the officers found the party had quieted down. The host was warned one last time for disorderly conduct.

Sunday, July 4

At 3:08 p.m. Officer William Britting provided traffic control on the Songo Pond Road for a disabled vehicle at the bottom of a blind hill.

At 4:28 p.m. Officer William Britting responded to a rollover accident, with personal injury, on Route 28 in Woodstock. He provided materials from the cruiser's medical kit to medical personnel who were on scene. The personnel included an off-duty EMT from Tri-Town Rescue, and a nurse from a hospital in Lancaster, N.H. The victim was stabilized and transported to a hospital. The officer closed a section of the road to facilitate the removal of the vehicle, and rerouted traffic to Route 232 by way of Rumford Avenue. He later contacted the Lancaster hospital's nursing supervisor, to pass along thanks for the nurse's help.

Saturday, July 3

At 10:22 p.m. Officer Shane Thomas responded to a village location for a report of shots fired. He could not locate a source of the noise, but spoke with a subject who said he believed it may have been fireworks. The officer cleared.

At 10:39 p.m. Officer Shane Thomas responded to Route 232 for a report of a single vehicle accident. He assisted a county deputy.

Thursday, July 1

At 2:27 a.m. Officer Shane Thomas received a report that a subject was leaving Bethel by car on her way to West Bethel. He had just dealt with the subject on another matter, and knew she could be intoxicated. A citation was issued to Dianna Berube, 26, for OUI.

is located less than a mile from her home.

And, Mills said, she's told him that if Roberts does not back off she is not going through with the deal. (The Citizen has not yet been able to contact Ring directly.)

"She said: 'I have not signed the paper yet, and if he (Roberts) doesn't smarten up, I will not,'" Mills said.

Mills said he volunteered to serve on the committee but had serious second thoughts after seeing Roberts in operation.

Roberts, Mills said, "Went ballistic, totally overboard. He just doesn't seem to be able to grasp what she is getting at."

What Ring had in mind in offering the parcel at far below its market value was spelled out in a February letter to the town from her attorney, Bruce A Rood of Norway.

One of the key stipulations is that access would be prohibited to motorized vehicles, except in the case of fire suppression or forestry activities.

But, noted Mills, paths that are wide enough to provide handicapped access are also likely to be usable by snowmobiles and ATVs, which Ring clearly wanted to avoid.

"There's no big mystery about it — it's all right there in her letter," Mills said.

Roberts told The Citizen Wednesday that the handicapped access trail was necessary to qualify for grant funding, which he intended to pursue aggressively.

"I'm going to be applying to get all I can for it, because there's an awful lot of money out there for it."

And the handicapped trail doesn't have to go all the way to the top, he said. "It just has to give a feeling they're in the woods."

But Mills questioned why it was necessary in the first place to apply for grant money — and accept all the strings that come with it.

"It makes no sense to spend all kinds of money there," he said, "when there is already a crew willing to cut a trail, and a town crew to put in a parking lot."

The second meeting of the Parks and Trails Committee is scheduled for Wednesday, July 14, at 6:30 p.m. in the Town Office.

Town selectmen meet the following Monday evening, July 20, at 5, and Ring was expected to attend that meeting to sign the contract.

"She'll sign the contract or not sign the contract — I don't know," Roberts said.

Exhibit

with the white settlers in a spirit of accommodation.

"Anxious to remain in their ancient homelands, these individuals were tested again during the American Revolution, when they found themselves split in allegiance between the colonists and the English.

"Following that conflict, a small number of Wabanaki stayed in the vicinity, becoming absorbed into the white way of life through inter-marriage or by assuming the role of guides, craftsmen, or, as in Molly Ockett's case, medical practitioners and advisors to the white newcomers."

The exhibit also describes the peace-loving Molly Ockett's role in the "Last Indian Raid in New England," in 1781; and the last days of Molly Ockett's life, and her subsequent burial in Andover in 1816.

"I hope people will come away with a better idea of the settlement period, and a real appreciation of Molly Ockett," said Bennett. "She was a real person, and she helped people."

A sampling from the exhibit "Molly Ockett and Her World," which opens July 17

"Marie Agathe"

"Born in 1740 in Saco, Molly Ockett was baptized Marie Agathe.

"The 18th century intermingling of Indian and white cultures is well-illustrated in the matter of Indian names, a later problem for scholars searching for references to Molly Ockett in records made during her lifetime.

"Many Wabanaki Indians in this region were Catholic and received Christian names at baptism from French Catholic missionaries.

"These names were used by the Indians in communicating with the English and were written phonetically from the Indian pronunciation, emerging in a new form.

"In some instances, given names were assumed to be surnames, compounding the confusion. Thus Marie Agathe, which sounded with French pronunciation like "Mari Agat," became "Mali Agit" when spoken by the Wabanaki, who had difficulty coping with the "r" sound.

"To English ears, Mali Agit sounded like "Molly Ockett," resulting in the name so thoroughly familiar to residents of this region today."

Sabattis and Molly Ockett

"Molly Ockett's relationship with Sabattis (an Indian with whom she had several children in the Fryeburg area), though lasting several years, was a stormy one and ended when his former wife came to Fryeburg to lay claim to him.

"The challenge was resolved 'in a very Indian way' by a fight between the two women.

"The match occurred on Fish Street in Fryeburg, witnessed by the wife of a local settler and Sabattis, who sat on a woodpile smoking his pipe.

"Reports vary on whether Molly Ockett won or lost, but weary of Sabattis's "intemperate habits and quarrelsome disposition," she soon left to join Captain Swassin's group of Indians who frequented the area between Lake Memphremagog and Umbagog Lake.

The "Doctress"

"Molly Ockett's intimate understanding of the natural environment and her use of herbal remedies to cure many of the afflictions of both Indians and white settlers earned her the respect and gratitude of those around her.

"Henry Tufts called her 'the great Indian doctress' and devised ways of getting Molly Ockett to reveal her secrets, a favor normally reserved only for those who were especially kind to her.

"But the question remains—why did the white settlers trust Molly Ockett to treat them during times of illness or accident?

"A decided lack of health-care options (Bethel's first physician, Dr. Timothy Carter, did not set up his practice until 1799), a traditional reliance in rural New England on midwives for general medical care (in addition to delivering babies), and a lack of knowledge concerning local herbal remedies all worked to her advantage.

"By successfully turning raw materials into tonics, salves, or poultices, Molly Ockett gained status in the world of the white settlers."

Sewer rate

"The revised budget now recommends utilization of all available SSDC funds (approximately $100,000) with $20,000 going toward outfall replacement and the remaining $80,000 used for the Bridge Street project, thus lowering long-term borrowing from $294,000 to $214,000 and associated debt service costs."

The revised budget calls for a total expenditure (including capital expenses) of $767,060.

If it is approved, the current rate of $6.40 per 100 cubic feet would increase to $6.75, and the current minimum quarterly charge of $96 would increase to $101.25.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte
The long Fourth of July weekend, with its beautiful weather and fun activities, rates a ten on any scale. Although there were no official celebrations in Upton, there were many barbecues, parties and family "get-togethers."

July 3 found people heading to Bethel for the festivities on the common. Yard sales at Largesses and Dapolitos were mandatory stops en route. Others enjoyed the Fourth celebration in Errol, where there was something for everyone.

Joan Miller exhibited her paintings on the common in Bethel. Several of her paintings went to some lucky purchasers.

The parade in Errol drew a huge crowd. It was a wonderful country offering with many imaginative floats depicting changes over the years. They ranged from World War II through the roaring twenties, the seventies to the present. If you couldn't get a chuckle out of them, you just don't know how to chuckle. Upton's float was small but much appreciated. Jessica and Caitlyn Casey held a tea party in a cart pulled by a lawn tractor operated by their aunt, Rosemary Gossfeld and her dog "Woof Woof." Rosemary runs a lawn service, "RG Properties." Her motto is: "If I can look good, so can your Lawn." Rosemary usually keeps her beautiful hair tucked under a cap. She wore a dress for the first time since her sister's wedding ten years ago. She topped off the outfit with combat boots. Very fetching indeed.

Hats off to Patty Bryant for the fine job she did on the Pie Baking Contest. The winners were — in the kids division: first prize, Ashley Edwards; second prize, Morgan McKenney; third prize, Joey Deter (spelling questionable). Adult Division: first prize, Jean Howard; second prize, Joan Bean; third prize, Angie Calder. Restaurant entries: first prize, Northern Exposure; second prize, Log Haven; third prize, Boscobuck Camps. Judges were Stephen James, executive pastry chef at the Balsams Hotel, and Sue Senter of Magalloway Enterprises.

Saturday, Dick Angevine took his New Mexico relatives up-lake in the pontoon boat. The following day they all went down-river in canoes on the Androscoggin.

While on Umbagog, a mother moose and her very young calf were seen swimming across the lake.

"C.J." and Barbara Stratton and Dave and Joan Miller have returned to spend the summer at Birch Point. The Tucker, Philbrick and Brooks camps were occupied over the weekend. The Williams had their usual house full. Theresa Irish visited with Walt and Liz Stanczyk. Shirley Staples and the "Chief" were at their camp uphill. Shirley is recovering from hand surgery and cannot do dishes. Happy Holiday, Shirley.

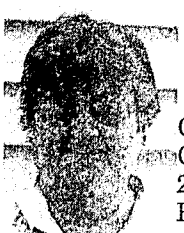

Congratulations to Jennifer Aldrich who attained "Best All Around Student." Her brother, Tyler, broke the school record with 977 points to receive the Accelerated Reader Award. Jessica Casey received an Art Award with a check and a gift. "Atta Girl" and "Atta Boy" awards to all of them. You make us proud. High Honors were attained by Timothy Aguilar, an Angevine grandson and Jennifer Aldrich.

Tyler Aldrich also received honors again.

The Strattons have a mother phoebe nesting over the "Jelly Jar" lamp at their camp. There's a "wee" one in the nest, but how many is anyone's guess. Momma bird spends all day catching flying insects to feed them. She will never run out of "baby food." The insects are more than plentiful. The phoebe is "The Bird of the Week."

The Annual Fourth of July Party was held at the Wixoms. The company and the food were first-class. Their many relatives enjoyed fireworks in Errol on the night before the Fourth. Next to Christmas I think July 4th is the best day of the year. Aren't we lucky to live "Up Country" in this wonderful country. Happy Birthday to us.

Gilead

by Lin Chapman
Greetings from Gilead. The 2004 Gilead Bicentennial celebration on June 26 has come and gone. I called to tell the Bethel Citizen that I thought they did a great job covering the event and to thank them. In the process, Mike Daniels tried to convince me that I should write the weekly Gilead column for the paper. After much thought and input from others, I decided to give it a try. After all, the Bicentennial is over (except for a fall wrap-up event — stay tuned for more info), and I have all this "free time" on my hands.

I really want to hear from the residents of Gilead. Let me know what you are doing, or at least what you would like to have other people read about in the paper. I can be reached in several ways. You can call me at 836-2987 (leave a message so I can call you back or information on my machine, Hugh), or e-mail me at chapmal@hotmail.com (use a subject line like Citizen news, because Hotmail sends unknown addresses to junk mail, and I will still be able to find your message). Some of the people who tried to convince me have already helped with a bit of news.

Members of the SAD44 maintenance crew recently traveled to Augusta for two days of training. Gilead resident Steve McLain recently completed sixteen hours of factory training on the new Vision school bus manufactured by Blue Bird. The training is centered on preventive maintenance, trouble shooting and repair of the vehicle.

Please contact me with information: birthday parties, vacations, visiting relatives, visiting friends, etc. To make the column work, I need your news.

East Bethel

by Nancy Mercer
Noelle Bernhard, granddaughter of Jean Grover, graduated from college in New Orleans, La., Alexis Grover graduated from Telstar Regional High School on June 4, and Grace Grover graduated from eighth grade to high school. This news should have been in last week's paper, but I goofed and didn't get it in.

Alder River Grange will not meet on July 9. There will be three or four members gone for that day. We will meet on the fourth Friday of July, the 23rd.

The East Bethel Church will have services on July 25 and Aug. 22. The services will be at 2 p.m. with Ben Conant as the pastor.

Danielle Bernier was home from Duluth, Minn., on June 19-28. While here she visited family and friends.

Andre and Flossie Bernier spent the Fourth of July weekend at their camp in Upton.

Barbara Honkala returned from Finland on June 26. The kantele lessons were in a small village near the Russian border. If she climbed a tower there, the view was fabulous. They could see into Russia, seeing only forests and more forests. She had a very good time and the group learned a lot of new things. The second Sunday there, they gave a concert. The weather was very much like ours, except they had no true sunset.

Barbara Honkala will celebrate her birthday on July 9. The next Grange supper will be baked beans and casseroles on July 24.

Have a nice week. God Bless the Troops.

Andover

by Joan Stinson-Carney
If you want to buy a really, really good book, make sure you purchase the Andover Historical Society's Bicentennial Cook Book. It's just great; not only does it have recipes but some very helpful hints. Some are really old, but still interesting. I'm sure you will all use these. When grinding suet, dip the chopper in boiling water and use while hot. Take a small jar of honey, boil with five Canadian peppermints and the juice of one lemon, and you will have a good cough syrup. And my favorite — this really works, I know because I tried it — scrape carrots under hot water and you won't stain your hands. Just one more: before scalding milk, if you rinse the pan in cold water the milk will not stick. This book is filled with history, pictures, and lots and lots of delicious ways to prepare food. My daughter-in-law is getting one for Christmas. This is the same daughter-in-law that didn't know how to make mashed potatoes. No kidding. The book costs $20 and we have some for sale at the Town Office.

If you want to send a gift to someone fighting in Iraq, the Andover Post Office has just the thing. You can purchase a Phone Card and the Postal Service will make sure it gets to a "Mainer" fighting over there. If you buy two cards, the Postal Service will give you a 3-by-5 American Flag for free. Our military personnel really love to receive these cards; it costs so much to call home that a lot of them can't afford it. Now if only we could get them all home safely.

Barbara and Orville Meisner hosted a family gathering and dinner on June 19 after the end of the Bicentennial activities. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Cariton Hall and children, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sefakis and daughter all from Ashburnham, Mass., Mr. and Mrs.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

Have you ever noticed that "used" is a word that is seldom used any more? At least not the way it used to be used.

I'm sure you have noticed that used car lots have been replaced by pre-owned motor vehicles sales lots. There is no difference between a used car and a pre-owned vehicle, but someone must have thought "pre-owned" sounded a lot classier than used.

Something about the word "used" gives the impression that the car is old or has had a hard life. Pre-owned attaches a connotation that there is some kind of advantage in buying a car that has been driven all over God's creation. It's as if the dealers want to make you believe that a pre-owned vehicle has been broken in just for you.

The fact is, a pre-owned vehicle is a used car that has been used by somebody, maybe even several somebodies, and they don't want to use it anymore.

A used car isn't like something new that has been improved by doing something "pre" to it. Take pre-washed jeans for example. They have been made better by washing the stiffness out and reducing the shrinkage. Pre-cooked foods are a nice convenience and save us a lot of time when we are in a hurry.

No one in their right mind would think even for a minute that they are buying used jeans or used food. So do the used car folks think that by applying the same marketing principle, the buyer will feel they are getting a product that has been improved?

Previously owned car salespeople are not the only ones using this marketing technique. How about previously viewed movies? All movies become previously viewed the day after they open in the theater.

Previously viewed videos are something else; they are older movies on video cassette that have been rented for viewing 643 times and may or may not continue to be viewable. They have seen the guts of many, many VCRs.

Life was much simpler when you went to the dump and kicked the tires on a used car.

Even the real estate folks have gotten into the act by promoting previously occupied homes. I think it is safe to assume that unless the Perma Shield stickers are still on the windows, the house has been previously occupied. Especially when the house in question is being advertised as a "Handyman's Dream."

I guess this is the era for tagging things with names that make them sound better or more technological than they really are.

For example, no one goes to the dump anymore. They go to the solid waste transfer station or to a landfill facility. These places employ recycling technicians to make sure we don't dispose of our plastic milk containers with our potato peelings.

Dumps may be a thing of the past, but I still have vivid memories of going there with my Dad. After we dumped our garbage we would look through other people's garbage for returnable bottles. When we got home I would load the bottles into my wagon and take them to Pete's Variety Store for the deposit return.

Now you take your returnable bottles and cans to a redemption center. Redemption centers used to be where you went to exchange your S & H Green Stamps for a toaster.

But that was a long time ago when janitors were really janitors and not custodial engineers and you put your trash into a garbage can instead of a refuse disposal container.

Now salespeople are known as marketing specialists and employment agencies are career analysts. Libraries have become media and resource centers and we can telemarket our products on our telecommunication systems.

Life was much simpler when you went to the dump and kicked the tires on a used car (I never really understood that idea). It was nice when you could just take your returnable containers to the corner store and there were still S & H Green Stamps that you could take to a redemption center. But that was a long time ago and I guess I really should keep up with the time.

For all I know I may not even be considered a columnist anymore. I'm probably a creative verbiage engineer and the person who has the misfortune to edit this column probably has the position of excess verbiage control. And that is the way I see it, or keeping up with the times as well as a creative verbiage engineer I am also a visual observation technician.

Someone sent me some old Burma Shave sign sayings; I'll share a few with you. I love them. She kissed the hairbrush by mistake, she thought it was her husband Jake — use Burma Shave. Here it is the Fourth of July already.

Albert and Marie Curtis, Fred and Mandie Curtis and their two girls, Akayla and Felecia, also William and Albert Curtis III, Jason and Spencer Curtis all went camping for the week. Hope they all had a good time. Kenneth and Julie Curtis have had a lot of company lately. They have been having cookouts.

Albert Curtis Jr. came home from the hospital Tuesday. He has been there several days. He is feeling better now.

My daughter, Lillian Strait, came up Saturday. We went down to the Christmas Tree Shop in South Portland, then back up to Lewiston. It sure rained hard part of the time. We did quite a lot of shopping for our reunion.

Carl Curtis was home over the weekend, but I didn't see him.

Ann Holt was away so couldn't get any news from her.

Brad Payne has been playing a lot of golf lately at Bethel Inn and Paris Hill.

Quote of the week: "We judge ourselves by what we feel capable of doing, while others judge us by what we have already done."

That's it for this week.

Good news for the family — the twins arrived via cesarean section on Thursday, July 1 at 8:20 a.m. at St Mary's Hospital in Lewiston. The parents, Cameron and Kelly McLaughlin Hartley, are doing well. Sophia Grace weighed 5 pounds, 6 ounces and has a lot of dark hair. Weston Colin weighed 6 pounds, 7 ounces and has a little light fuzz on top. Jude Lamb is the grandmother, Mike McLaughlin is the grandfather, Florence McLaughlin and I are great-grandmothers. I did get down in the afternoon to see the new babies. They have a big brother, Nicolas, who is three. All will be busy for a long time. New fathers are now given maternity leave so the dad will be home for another week to help, then Grammie Jude will help out for awhile. Kelly is a twin. Grammie Jude knows how much work two babies require.

The Universalist Church service at West Summer on July 11 will be led by Marilyn Hammond. Church starts at 11 a.m. followed by a coffee hour. All are welcome.

Beryl Bonney and I were in Auburn this week for groceries. It sounds like we are eating continually by the amount of food we take home every three weeks. Of course a lot of so called groceries are cleaning materials. Things go up almost every shopping time. And the price of gas is at an all-time high. Coupons and tripling coupons are a big help. Now that the fresh vegetables are coming in we will be buying more nourishing foods from the farmers, and maybe less at the supermarket.

Tuna fish in water was on sale this week, so I stocked up with plenty to feed Buffy. He must not go hungry. He lives on dry food and tuna. The only thing he has eaten besides his food is chicken gizzards, not the heart or liver. He has been more active lately and is eating more.

Our sincere condolences go out this week to the family of Robert and Alonzo Brett, who has gone to be with his heavenly Father. He leaves two sons, Ronald and Donald, and three daughters, Julie, Patty and Norma, and seven grandchildren. He also has one sister, Mary, and one brother, Richard. There are also several great-grandchildren. We shall all miss Robert.

We are glad to welcome Fran Haney back from his surgery and thankful all went well.

We are also glad to welcome Pat, Fred and Elsie back home from Florida. It is great to see them at church and Grange again. We've missed you.

Sunday afternoon, a large contingency of Grange members from Oxford County went to Alder River Grange in East Bethel to help them celebrate their 100th anniversary. Grange master James Lowe put on a most delicious and scrumptious chicken barbecue supper with all the fixings. If anyone went away hungry, it was their own fault. Following supper, lecturer Stanley Howe did "A Walk Down Memory Lane" slide show. It was great. Saw many old friends and relatives in those slides from yesteryear. After the slide show, which was held downstairs, folks went upstairs for an old-fashioned Grange dance, including square dancing to the music of the Richard G. Felt Band, made up of Lona and Bill Bedard, Richard G. Felt, Lewis Newcomb, Dot Canwell, Sterling Mills and Yvonne Nowlin. A wonderful time was had by all. Congratulations to all of you for a wonderful job well done and for reaching 100 years as a Grange.

Last Monday, Franklin Grange 124 held their CWA night under the direction of Alice Hoyt. Congratulations, Alice, on a job well done. Master for the evening was Jeanne Burnham of Saco Grange and overseer was Yvonne Johnson of Cape Elizabeth Grange. During the program Jeanne presented her aunt, Peggy Blake, with her 55-year certificate for continuous membership and Irene Mills with her 25-year certificate of continuous membership. Congratulations ladies and many thanks for all the hard work you have done for the Grange over the years.

A TIMELY GIFT—Marjorie Osgood of KeyBank officially turned over the deed to the plot of land at the corner of Main, High, and Mechanic streets to the town of Bethel last week. The plot will be the site of a new 15-foot-high, two-sided post clock that will be installed this fall. The clock is a project of the Bethel Rotary Club. Club members and outside groups have so far contributed about $5,000 to the effort. Here, Osgood presents the deed to Town Manager Scott Cole. Walter Hatch, who is coordinating the clock project for the Rotary Club, is at right. Anyone interested in supporting the project may send donations to the Bethel Rotary Club, P.O. Daughters of Union Veterans will meet on Monday, July 12. There will be a picnic and meeting at Sally Sawyer's. There will be a flag-burning ceremony. Each one is to bring something and the tent will furnish hot dogs and hamburgers.

Fay Roberts will be celebrating her 80th birthday. Friends and relatives can wish her a happy birthday on Sunday July 18, 1 to 3 p.m. at the Jefferson Lodge, Main Street, Bryant Pond. No gifts please.

The Historical Society welcomes anyone as a member and dues are modest. President Olive Risko recently watched the museum. Paul Billings and Vicki May did some work there. Curator Larry Billings also came and supplied some small old-fashioned roses. He also brought a vase and artificial flowers to decorate for the flea market. Thanks to everyone who supported the society during the fundraising and to Annela Burnham for running it. The flowers look nice outside the museum. The urn is especially attractive this summer. Curator Larry Billing gave his mother a large plant because she lost hers and they have enjoyed watching it bloom profusely.

The society will celebrate History Day Aug. 7, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. There will be craft tables, a food table and museum tours. Bouquets of artificial flowers will decorate the building this year.

Locke Mills

by Lorraine Larson

It has been quite a couple of weeks so far. I had Lucy to the vet's and he discovered she had an acute ear infection and a small cancerous spot on her back. Anyhow, amidst the loud complaints of Lucy, who is very vocal in her disapproval, he managed to get her ears shaved so I could get some medicine in, and I brought her home with the ear meds and an antibiotic. Well, it would have been nice if it had been clear sailing from there on but it wasn't. The antibiotic put her right off her feet. She could not stand much less walk. Of course I didn't know, at first, what was doing it, so I put in a call early Saturday morning and it was decided to stop the medicine and put her on Benedril along with the drops for the ears. All right so far. I got the Benedril in her, but she was not about to let me get near her ears much less put anything in them.

Monday morning, things broke loose around here. Ralph came down to tell me Lorene was having severe chest pains and he had called the ambulance, Lucy was moaning and groaning and walking around in circles, and I had about decided that it would be better to put her down also than to have her suffer, so I made yet another appointment for four o'clock.

Then I got a call from Preston who had dislocated his shoulder and couldn't work and needed a ride home. I told him about his mother and said I would come get him and take him home, which I did, and then took off for Stephens Memorial Hospital to find out about Lorene. They did some tests but nothing seemed to show up. Does it ever? But they decided to admit her to ICU anyway; the first thought being that she might have had a heart attack since part of her heart had not been working right last week.

So back to Greenwood I came, figuring I probably was faced with putting down yet another dog, as she had not eaten and had drunk a lot of water but nothing had come out in 24 hours. However, her bladder was not full and the vet filled her ears with medication, clipped her toenails, and cleaned out the anal glands and sent her home again. She improved quite a bit over the night and although she is doing a little groaning and rubbing her ears she is back to eating, eliminating, and walking around without going in circles all the time and is even getting some normal sleep. Before, she would pace until she was exhausted and then would flop down and go out like a light.

I am not sure what Princess feels about all this but I try to give her a little extra attention, which I am not sure she totally appreciates, since she views my giving her attention as probably going to mean she "gets a pill, or gets some of her hair clipped (which she equates with getting burned at the stake), or gets her toenails cut or some other indignity she has to put up with." She is a very suspicious dog.

Lorene, however, did not get home Tuesday as she had planned. Sometimes I think maybe we should go to vets instead of doctors but maybe I should not go there, might get myself in a heap of hot water. At least they did move Lorene to a regular room; hopefully with a view.

First off, I'd like to apologize for my column not making it into print and to thank Polly for trying to get it in. My e-mail, through no fault of my own, or my ISP frequently backs out. We do not always know it has done this. They say it is a problem with the phone lines. Maybe so. We tried to get high-speed internet through GWT, and they said we have the wrong kind of lines in this area. Other providers have told friends the same thing. To try to solve the problems we have, we are going to try going high speed through Adelphia. It costs more, but it may make life easier. It has the advantage of allowing us both to be on-line at the same time without even tying up the phone. Of course, if we're both on-line, who is going to answer the phone? So if you get the machine, don't be too surprised.

Welcome to fall/summer, a little early for fall, a little late for summer. These cool mornings and clear, crisp evenings set the pace for brisk walks and hard work out-of-doors. Not being a hot-weather person, I am not complaining, but the garden would like a bit more warmth and sun. We did need the rain we got, but we also need sun. That, too, will come.

Mountain Poets had a great meeting last week. We had about 17 people present. Only one person did not read. She came as support (and ride) for her fourth-grade daughter. It was great to see and hear all the different poems and styles. Two people sang their work. All had a great time. We spanned the ages from 9 or 10 to 80s. Most of the group will be reading again at the Poets on the Porch as part of the Norway Summer Festival.

We attended the breakfast at the Wilkins House on the 5th of July. We were there early and the crowd had already started to pile in. At 9 a.m. there was a long line. At 10 a.m. the line was a little shorter, but still there. The food was great and I am sure all had a great time. There were cars parked up and down the entire road.

We also attended the Mason's yard sale the 4th and 5th. There was something there for everybody. People from the breakfast came by the hall and checked out the sale.

As part of the Summer Fest 2004, the Waterford Congregational Church will hold a delectable dinner and awesome auction on Friday, July 30, at 6 p.m. It will be held at the Wilkins Community House on Plummer Hill Road in Waterford Village. Tickets are a $10 donation. Seating is limited to 80 people. Call Karen at 583-6526 or Joann at 583-4673. There is also a Summer Fest Concert on Aug 1 at 4 p.m.

July 10 is the Norway Summer Festival. Gary Lawless will read at Poets on the Porch. Local poets will also be reading. The reading will begin at 2:30 p.m. FMI: call Lisa at 743-9808.

Waterford Historical Society is meeting on July 8, 6:30 p.m., at Wilkins House. Paul Atlip will present a program on the Civil War. FMI: call Cynthia at 583-6597.

That is all for this week. Have a great week and enjoy the summer-like weather.

Albany

by Dana & Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. We trust everyone enjoyed their Fourth of July weekend. We did. We hit a bunch of yard sales, grilled all weekend, made S-Mores and lit some sparklers for the 4th.

Church had a patriotic theme in its hymns sung on Sunday. Marissa Corriveau has been filling in for our organist, Edna York, these past few weeks and has been doing a great job.

Of course, we all miss Edna and hope to see her back on her feet soon.

Barton's Pick Your Own Strawberries farm has been open for the past couple of weeks. We hope you can get up there before the season ends to get some of their fine berries.

This Thursday is the first of the church suppers, starting at 5:30 p.m.

As usual, there will be good home-cooked dishes, salads, and pies. The dining room always fills up fast, so be sure you get there in plenty of time to sit down. The next supper will be on the 22nd.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Hi readers. On Tuesday, June 22, about 16 people met at the Arts and Crafts building at Camp Susan Curtis for another informational and sign-up meeting for the new Waterford-Stoneham Lions Club. Bob Swett, the district manager of the Maine Lions Clubs, opened the meeting with a welcome to everyone present and explained what the Lions are and what they do.

The next meeting and sign-up and more information will be the third Wednesday of this month, July 21, at the Wilkins House in Waterford at 6:30 p.m. with a potluck supper. Meetings will be the third Wednesday of the month. They might be meeting in Stoneham during the winter months.

Pat Carson, director of Camp Susan Curtis, spoke of the good that the Lions have done, also a bit about Camp Susan Curtis, which has about 550 children during each summer, which is a good experience for the children of Maine to go to a summer camp for two weeks of the summer. They give the underprivileged children of Maine a hand up, not a hand out. The camp is named after former Maine Governor Ken Curtis' daughter who died at 11 of cystic fibrosis.

Over 90 percent of their budget and support is given through caring individuals, businesses and community service groups in Maine. As of last summer, more than 12,000 children have attended this camp. Guidance counselors and teachers refer children who they think will benefit from this camp experience.

On Friday, June 25, we went to the TRIAD free lunch at Fryeburg Fairgrounds. Over 215 people signed in at the door. It was a real nice gathering. Many organizations were represented there with information, like the AARP, Community Concepts, Norway Rehab and Living Center, Sheriff's Department and many more. There were many tips to help the elderly in their day-to-day living. We met and sat with Betty Kerr from Dixfield and Margaret George from Peru. We also met Connie Tuttle of Mexico Senior Citizens. It was a nice day all around.

This past weekend, Dale Nelson went hiking all day in New Hampshire. He belongs to the Hiking Club. On his way there, early in the morning, he saw a coyote along the way.

Albert Nelson Jr. went to camp at Big Brook and while there saw a bear and also a deer.

Troy Nelson gave us a huge salmon one day recently and it was good. Thanks, Troy. We've had some good fresh peas and strawberries. I would say that we eat well, sometimes, too well.

Everett Wakefield and Elizabeth (Adams) Wakefield from Harrison called on me yesterday. Elizabeth and I used to go to grade school together here in Stoneham. That was a long time ago.

It was good seeing her and catching up on bits of news. She remarked on how my cousin, Wilma (Warren) Taylor, used to go to school on horseback and when she got there, she told him to go home and he did. She then rode home after school with my aunt, Alice Dionne, who was the teacher there, and lived next door to her.

From the Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

Six members recently attended the annual Department Convention in Augusta on June 18 and 19: Florence Bailey, Helvi Cary, Sylvia Dunham, Jamie Hastings, Olive Risko and Pamela Rugg. They reported to the membership at their meeting on June 24. Some certificates were received for the participation of members in programs of benefit to veterans, and Rowena Dunham received some first-place awards for the Unit History that she submitted this year and also for the work in reporting on two veterans and their World War II activities.

Members are urged to get their 2005 dues paid as soon as possible, as they are scheduled to be raised to $12 on Sept. 1. A couple of years ago the department's president had a project for "Songs of Love." This is a project in which original songs are composed and recorded especially for very seriously ill children, using their names, etc. This will be a program for the auxiliary again this year. The president's project this year is "New Beginnings," a program to benefit troubled teens, ages 12 to 17, headquartered in Lewiston and with branches in other areas. They spend three weeks in a residence while receiving guidance and counseling. Money is needed for their toiletries and other necessities. Jackson-Silver Unit voted $200 to each of these projects. Another ongoing project is that of providing backpacks and stuffed animals for foster children and the Unit already has some of these to be given out.

Kelly Bickford has been sending items for some time to troops stationed in Iraq for their comfort. As a newer member of Jackson-Silver Unit she has continued this as a Unit activity. For a month she had a basket in the Bethel Foodliner with a list of requested items to which people who wished donated. She has sent several boxes of items to the 619th Transportation Company from Auburn and to the 133rd Combat Heavy Engineer Battalion from Norway. Kelly has acquaintances serving in these companies and recently received a thank you note, especially for the hand-held battery operated fans and the Little Debbie cakes and stating that they love it when they receive these boxes. She will be continuing this project and wishes to thank all those who have contributed items. All kinds of things from general toiletries, snack food and candy items to stationery items, hometown newspapers, phone cards, etc. are most welcome. She will be seeking pre-paid phone cards, especially, so that they can call home.

The auxiliary has no regular meetings scheduled for July, but will not be idle, as they are continuing their monthly supper/dances and there will be a Red Cross blood drive on Aug. 23.

BEACH HOUSE RAFFLE WINNERS

Scott and Robin Mills, owners of Bethel's Best Restaurant, were the winners of a recent raffle to raise money for the MS Foundation. The couple won a week at a house on the beach in Kennebunkport. The raffle was offered by Pam Littell, who summers in Bethel. Her daughter, Amy has MS, and Pam has taken part in the annual MS Walk fundraiser for the past five years. This year, she walked in Biddeford, on April 18. In addition to outright pledges, Pam also offered the raffle. Anyone pledging $50 could be included in the raffle drawing. A total of 75 people from both the Kennebunk and Bethel areas participated, and the Mills won the drawing. Pam raised a total of more than $14,000 for the Walk, tops in the state. She said the raffle effort tripled the amount of money she raised over last year. For next year, she and Ralph Berube of Bethel plan to offer a ski weekend at one of the houses Berube rents during the winter. Littell (right) is shown here with Robin and Scott Mills at their restaurant.

The annual family picnic will be held on Aug. 19 beside the hall.

From the Oxford Pomona Grange 2

It has been a busy month for Oxford Pomona with two regular meetings in June instead of the usual one, to make up for skipping January and February. Add to that a trip to Azisacos Grange in Wilson's Mills.

The June 1 meeting was held at Alder River 145 in East Bethel with a small attendance. One reason for this was that two Easter brothers from Rumford Grange were in Washington D.C. for the dedication of the World War II Memorial and they usually bring other Rumford Grange members with them. The other reason may have been because it was time for election of officers. Officers for the coming year will be the same except that the new master will be Stan Howe, Laura Hutchins will be the lecturer and Yvonne Nowlin will take the chaplain's place. A memorial service was held for those members who passed on during the year. A short program followed. Mystery march winners were Gloria Abbott, Gail Butterfield, Stan Howe and Yvonne Nowlin.

June 14 found about 20 headed for Wilson's Mills. That they have no members who belong to Pomona is understandable when you think about how far they would have to travel to come to meetings. We gathered at 4 p.m. so we would be headed home before it became too difficult to see wandering moose. The Pomona officers opened the meeting in the fourth degree, then presented a program. It being Flag Day there were patriotic songs, jokes, skits and music by the Felt Band. The members at Azisacos then treated us to a very delicious and bountiful meal before we headed home.

On June 22, the road construction through West Bethel didn't bother us too much in getting to Pleasant Valley Grange 136, but it did make our special guest, Vicki Huff, a little late. Our meetings are always preceded by a 6:30 p.m. supper, all of them bountiful and delicious, and this was no exception.

This being Youth Night, our guests caught us up on activities of the Youth and Junior Granges. Monetary contributions were voted for the Youth Grange, Educational Aid Fund and Howes Nurses Scholarship. The program consisted of jokes, music and a roll call about "What do you do to keep young?" Mystery march winners were Marion Morton, Vicki Huff, Yvonne Nowlin and Dot Canwell.

The next meeting will be July 6 at Norway Grange 45 for Skit Night. Aug. 3 will be Community Service Night held at West Paris 298 and Sept. 7 will be at Lakeside Grange 63 for Installation of Officers.

A good many Pomona members surely enjoyed Alder River's 100th anniversary on June 27 with the social hour followed by the chicken barbecue and lots of other foods, the slides from earlier days in

Annual Drinking Water Quality Report for 2003 BETHEL WATER DISTRICT

Bethel, ME
PWSID ME0090160

We're pleased to present to you our Annual Drinking Water Quality Report. This report, a requirement of the 1996 amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act, is designed to inform you about the quality of water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water.

WATER SOURCE

Your water supply comes from Chapman Brook. We screen the water twice before treating it with chlorine to protect from possible bacterial contaminants and add fluoride to promote dental health. It is then gravity fed to our 1,313 customers through 525 service connections. Our water has a water filtration system. We own 2,300 acres surrounding the source, we have developed and implemented a Watershed Control. It is designed to prevent contamination of our source.

SOURCE WATER ASSESSMENT

The sources of drinking water include rivers, lakes, ponds, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and other substances. The Maine Drinking Water Program (MDWP) has evaluated all public water supplies as part of the Source Water Assessment Program (SWAP). The assessments included geology, hydrology, land use, water testing information, and the extent of land ownership or protection by local ordinance to see how likely our drinking water source is to being contaminated by human activities in the future. Assessment results are available at public water suppliers, town offices, and the DWP. For more information about the SWAP, please contact the DWP at telephone 287-2070.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Lucien Roberge, Superintendent, or Donald Katin, Assistant Superintendent, at telephone number 824-2342 or mailing address P.O. Box 104, Bethel, ME 04217. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the third Tuesday of every month at 4 p.m. at the District office, 9 Philbrook St.

WATER QUALITY

Bethel Water District routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. The following table shows any detection resulting from our monitoring for the period of January 1 to December 31, 2003.

In 2002, due to efforts to protect the water supply, we applied for and were granted a three-year waiver for synthetic organics (Phase I/IV) testing. This is an exemption from the testing/monitoring requirements for pesticides, herbicides, fungicides and other industrial chemicals, the state of Maine Drinking Water Program grants a waiver only upon a finding that "it will not result in an unreasonable risk to health."

As you can see by the table, our system had no violations. We're proud that your drinking water exceeds all Federal and State requirements. We have learned through our monitoring and testing that some constituents have been detected. The EPA has determined that your water is SAFE at these levels.

Oxford County Republicans

Oxford County Republicans will gather on July 13 at State Committeeman Stan Howe's house on Broad Street in Bethel (directly across from the entrance to the Bethel Inn) for the annual picnic hosted by the Bethel Town Committee. The social hour will begin at 5:30 p.m. with the barbecue at 6:30 followed by a brief meeting. The two state Senate candidates from Oxford County will be the featured speakers, David Hastings of Fryeburg and Robert Cameron of Rumford. All Oxford County Republicans are cordially invited to attend.

At the monthly meeting on June 15 in Stoneham, representatives of the Bush-Cheney campaign outlined the 72-hour strategy to mobilize the Republican vote in November. Reports were made about the 2004 State Convention, where State Committeewoman Becky Kendall and State Committeeman Stan Howe were re-elected. In addition, Oxford County gained another seat on the State Committee, which was filled at the County Caucus at the convention in Augusta by Diane Jackson. Becky Kendall served on the Platform Committee and Stan Howe was on the Rules Committee. Over 100 delegates and alternates from Oxford County were seated in the front row of the convention due to the fact that the county was one of the leaders in fundraising for the State Party and in celebration of Olympia Snowe's 25 years in national office.

Mahoosuc Arts Council

The Mahoosuc Arts Council is pleased to announce the return of concerts on the Bethel common this summer. The Bethel Bandstand Concerts will feature Jewel Clark and Donnie Katlin on July 11, at 4 p.m., as the first of four Sunday afternoon shows.

Join local favorites Jewel Clark and Donnie Katlin as they sing, laugh, play guitars, and yodel. Yes, yodel. Although both Jewel and Donnie have worked with various bands over the years, and as solo performers, they especially enjoy combining their talents as a duo.

They perform a variety of traditional country, folk, standards, and original music. Both have deep roots in country music. Donnie comes from a musical Midwest family and Jewel is the daughter of Maine performers Yodeling Slim Clark and his wife Blue Eyed Celia.

Utilizing what they refer to as "artistic license," where they are apt to adapt some new style to an old tune, you just never know what you might hear from them. It is a given, however, that your listening experience will include the unique art of yodeling, a skill Jewel learned from her father. Slim was a pioneer in New England country music, while also achieving national notoriety by receiving honors at the County Music Hall of Fame in Nashville and the Western Music Hall of Fame in Tucson, Ariz.

Upcoming concerts will feature the Denny Breau Trio, an eclectic mix of rock to rockabilly on Aug. 1, the sweet female barbershop harmonies of The Mollycoddet Chorus on Aug. 22 and classic Americana performed by the Unknown Legends on Aug. 29. The Bethel Bandstand Concerts are sponsored by the Otten Family and The Sudbury Inn.

All concerts begin at 4 p.m. and run sixty to ninety minutes in length. The rain site is Bingham Auditorium on Church Street at Gould Academy. The public is cordially invited to attend.

next Monday, July 12 at the Bethel Inn & Country Club. The following weekend, the chamber will be organizing three events on Mollyockett Day: the Key Bank/Mollyockett Day classic, our famous lobster roll booth and the Great Duck Race.

We are still seeking volunteers; if you have a couple hours that day and would like to help, please contact the office.

There is still time to sign up for the one-mile, the five-mile and the three-mile walking event on Mollyockett Day morning. If you come to the office to sign up, there still might be a chance to receive a commemorative t-shirt with your entry fee. Waiting until the morning of the race reduces your chances, so sign up soon.

From the Telstar Alumni Association

New this year at the Telstar Car Show will be a People's Choice Award. Spectators coming on the field will get a ballot and be able to choose their favorite entry at the show.

The entry with the most votes will receive the People's Choice trophy. The show date is Saturday, July 17, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Proceeds from this show go toward a scholarship fund.

The Telstar Car Show will again feature a Telstar alumni trophy. All Telstar alumni who register a car, truck or motorcycle will receive a balloon to tie onto their entry.

Show participants will vote for their favorite Telstar alumni entry.

This trophy is being sponsored by the Telstar Alumni Association.

Whitman Memorial Library

There will be a combination Book Sale and Yard Sale at the library on Saturday, July 24 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Donations of books are still being accepted. If you would like to recycle some of your own used goods, please come and join us. Bring a table and set up on the front lawn. We request a donation to the library of only $5. The book sale will be held in the basement of the library. Come and buy books, but also notice the improvement to the room itself.

Story Hour: Valerie Billings is leading another summer story hour on Tuesday mornings from 10 to 11. The stories are followed up with an arts and crafts period. Thanks to a generous grant from the Oxford County Enrichment Trust we are able to purchase new books, art supplies and provide a wrap-up program in August. This year we will be entertained by Trickster Fox on Aug. 10.

Our monthly programs with guest speakers will not be in session during July and August, but will start up again in September on the second Thursday of the month. Be watching for this information also.

From the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

Sunny skies prevailed for the annual Fourth of July Community Picnic held annually at the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center. Dr. Donald M. Christie, Jr., who grew up in Bethel on Main and Mason streets, was the featured speaker who recalled his memories of the Fourth in the 1950s and quoted two contemporary accounts of the news of the Declaration of Independence as it reached Maine. The color guard of the Mundt Allen Post 81, American Legion, presented the colors. This was followed by a two-hour concert by the Portland Brass Quintet. Sponsors for this concert and for the Yankee Brass concert on July 31 included: June Abbott, Bethel; William and Deborah Andrews, Newry; Al and Lee Barth, Paris; Bessie Bennett, Bethel; Randall Bennett, Bethel; Hi and Mary Lou Berry, Newry; Bethel Rotary Club; Kenneth and Gwyneth Bohr, Bethel; Marjorie Brandriss; David Kristol, Summit, N.J.; Leland Brown, Bethel; Dr. Donald M. On July 17, the Bethel Historical Society will open its latest exhibit, "Molly Ockett and Her World." Expected to run through December 2006, the exhibit makes use of photographs, artifacts, paintings, and written text to tell the story of Molly Ockett and the world in which she lived from the time of her birth around 1740 until her death in 1816. Appropriately, the exhibit has been installed in the "Molly Ockett Room" of the society's O'Neil Robinson House at 10

Broad Street, where a plaque honoring this well-known Indian describes her as a "Pig-wacket healer, artisan, hunter, story teller, and stalwart friend of the settlers of the region and this town."

Born on a point of land below the falls at Saco, Molly Ockett is the best-known individual from the local past in the mind of the typical residents of western Maine. Baptized "Marie-Agathe," Molly Ockett lived among the white settlers in such towns as Andover, Bethel, Fryeburg and Paris during the 18th and early 19th centuries. She is honored annually at Bethel's "Molly Ockett Day" celebration, and her name is connected with numerous geographic landmarks, business ventures, and community organizations.

Through the years, since her death in 1816, Molly Ockett has become a legendary figure, the subject of fireside story telling, of school pageants, and popular magazine articles. The "Indian mystique," complete with romance, curses, buried treasure, and near miraculous cures, has insured Molly Ockett's place in the consciousness of the region. But what of the real Molly Ockett? Tangible evidence of her life exists in her burial place in Andover, in several decorated birch bark boxes and embroidered pocketbook, and in accounts of her activities recorded from the memories of early white settlers. Both English and French colonial records also provide the basis for the many popular and often retold stories about Molly Ockett. Through the use of these sources and others, the society's exhibit seeks to elevate Molly Ockett from the realm of myth and legend to the status of a documented personage in the colonial history of northern New England.

Beyond the focus on the life of this well-known Abenaki, the society's newest exhibit will address a wide range of topics and issues that were of significance during Molly Ockett's lifetime. Such subjects are Indian-white cultural exchange, the Revolutionary War, the settling of towns in western Maine and northern New Hampshire, and the famous "Last Indian Raid in New England" (which occurred in the upper Androscoggin Valley in 1781) are just a few of the subjects to be covered. By expanding upon the life of Molly Ockett, the society hopes to create an exhibition that will be of interest to the general public, as well as those searching for an accurate portrayal of Indian life during this important period in the region's history.

Funding for the "Molly Ockett and Her World" exhibit has been provided by the Molly Ockett Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the state organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution. This exhibit and others in the society's O'Neil Robinson House are open throughout the year, Tuesday through Friday, 10 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. on weekends during July, August and December.

Obituaries

MURIEL HALL LEVER

Muriel Hall Lever, died Sunday, June 27, 2004 at Marshwood Nursing Facility, Lewiston.

Born April 8, 1924, she was a daughter of Norman and Lettie Hall of Bethel. She was a graduate of Gould Academy, Class of 1941, and shortly thereafter enrolled in the School of Nursing at the then Central Maine General Hospital.

After earning her Registered Nursing certification she joined the nursing staff of C.M.G. where she worked for several years before becoming the nurse receptionist for Dr. Rudolph Haas. She worked in that office until shortly after her marriage to William B. Lever on Jan. 18, 1947.

She was an excellent bridge player and an ardent golfer — a member of Martindale Country Club for over forty years. She thoroughly enjoyed the July weeks spent at Ocean Park and Pine Point and was a little less enamored with the thirty-odd years of skiing at Sugarloaf. She was also a communicant of Trinity Episcopal Church and served on the Altar Guild as well as participating in a myriad of church projects. She will be greatly missed by her family and by a small dog named Joshua, who realizes something endearing has gone out of his life, too.

She is survived by her husband; daughters, Barbara L. Sabin and husband Roger Sabin of Andover and Joan L. Chabot and husband Marc of Auburn; grandchildren, Ben and Michael Sabin and Nicole and Katelyn Chabot; brother, Quentin Hall and wife Gloria; and sisters, Mrs. Barbara Parker and Mrs. Ruth Hall. She was pre-deceased by a son, William Hall Lever, who died in an automobile accident in 1975; and a brother, Bradley Hall.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, June 30, at Trinity Episcopal Church, Lewiston, with Committal at Riverside Cemetery. Those wishing to make donations in her name may do so to The Automatic Door Opening Fund at Marshwood Nursing Facility, 33 Roger Street, Lewiston ME 04240.

JOAN B. DAVIS

She enjoyed kids, flowers and puzzles and was a former member of the Rebekah's.

She is survived by her son, Thomas Davis and wife Denise of Acton; two daughters, Theresa Nowlin and husband Kenneth of Harrison and Karen Whittenton of Friendwood, Texas; four brothers, Arthur Coffin of Albany, Robert Coffin of West Paris, Fred Coffin of Albany and Larry Coffin of Woodstock; a sister, Patricia Bean of South Paris; six grandchildren, Michael Runney of Acton, Corina Davis of Gorham, Amber McLaughlin and Angel Crocker both of Harrison and Jeremiah Whittenton and Jonathan Whittenton both of Friendwood, Texas; and six great-grandchildren.

A memorial service was held at the Raymond-Wentworth Funeral Home, Bridgton on Tuesday, July 6.

Card of Thanks

Louise Worcester's recent illness and passing brought sympathetic understanding, support, and encouragement from neighbors, relatives, and friends, old and new. To her and her family came letters, cards, e-mails, cheering visits, flowers, food, even entire meals, phone calls, and prayers. Louise was pleased and her family sincerely appreciates each of you for the kindness and love you have shown. We particularly thank Jan Whitworth and Dr. Nicholette Erickson for their sensitive, compassionate attention. And the wonderful care and assistance provided to our mother by the extra special people from Androscoggin Home Care and Hospice will never be forgotten. We thank you all.
